NEW QUESTION: 1

You need to build a knowledge base in Data Quality Services (DQS).

You need to ensure that the data is validated by using a third-party data source before DQS processes the data.

Which four actions should you perform in sequence? To answer, move the appropriate actions from the list of actions to the answer area and arrange them in the correct order.

Answer:

Explanation:

Explanation

Building a DQS knowledge base involves the following processes and components:

Step 1: Perform Knowledge Discovery

A computer-assisted process that builds knowledge into a knowledge base by processing a data sample Step 2: Perform Domain Management An interactive process that enables the data steward to verify and modify the knowledge that is in knowledge base domains, each of which is associated with a data field. This can include setting field-wide properties, creating rules, changing specific values, using reference data services, or setting up term-based or cross-field relationships.

Step 3: Configure reference Data Services

A process of domain management that enables you to validate your data against data maintained and guaranteed by a reference data provider.

Step 4: Configure a Matching Policy

A policy that defines how DQS processes records to identify potential duplicates and non-matches, built into the knowledge base in a computer-assisted and interactive process.

What is Phantom RP used for?

- A. it is used for redundancy in PIM-SM
- B. it is used for load balancing in PIM-SM
- C. it is used for load balancing in bidirectional PIM
- D. it is used for redundancy in bidirectional PIM

Answer: D

Explanation:

Phantom RP In Bidirectional PIM (Bidir-PIM), the RP does not have an actual protocol function. The RP acts as a routing vector in which all the traffic converges. The RP can be configured as an address that is not assigned to any particular device called a Phantom RP. This means that the RP address does not need to reside on a physical router interface, but can just be an address in a subnet. The RP can also be a physical router, but it is not necessary.
