NEW QUESTION: 1

The administrator receives a call from an employee named Joe. Joe says the Internet is down and he is receiving a blank page when typing to connect to a popular sports website.

The administrator asks Joe to try visiting a popular search engine site, which Joe reports as successful. Joe then says that he can get to the sports site on this phone. Which of the following might the administrator need to configure?

- A. The default block page on the URL filter
- B. The access rules on the IDS
- C. The sensitivity level of the spam filter
- D. The pop up blocker in the employee's browser

Answer: A

Explanation:

A URL filter is used to block access to a site based on all or part of a URL. There are a number of URL-filtering tools that can acquire updated master URL block lists from vendors, as well as allow administrators to add or remove URLs from a custom list.
