NEW QUESTION: 1
「強制的な企業規則」の概念をカバーする一般データ保護規則（GDPR）によると、
A. データを別の国に転送するという企業の決定。
B. 国際転送における個人データの保護に関して企業グループが使用する一連の規則
C. 複数の国間のデータ転送を対象とするルール。
D. データ保護法がない国にデータを転送するための契約条項。
Answer: B
Explanation:
Compulsory Corporate Rules are rules used internally by multinational companies to transfer personal data. Thus, it is possible to transfer data between them, even if the destination company is in a country that does not have an adequate level of data protection. These rules are like an internal corporate code of conduct and do not cover transfers of personal data outside the corporate group.
Do not confuse "Compulsory Corporate Rules" with "Standard Contractual Clauses". The last are clauses in contracts for international data transfer between companies (customer and supplier relationship) where the destination country does not have an adequate level of data protection, and depends on authorization from the Supervisory Authority.
Article 58 of GDPR
3. supervisory authority shall have all of the following authorisation and advisory powers:
a) to advise the controller in accordance with the prior consultation procedure referred to in Article 36.

NEW QUESTION: 2

A. A special resolution
B. An ordinary resolution
C. A written special resolution
D. A written ordinary resolution
Answer: D

NEW QUESTION: 3
A nonfunctional requirement _____.
A. specifies what the system should do

B. is a detail that happens to be true but has not been tested or verified
C. is an attribute that can prevent a project from being completed
D. specifies how the system should behave
Answer: D
Explanation:
A functional requirement states something the system should do (for example, the system should process transactions). A nonfunctional requirement states how the system should behave (for example, the system should update its performance metrics every 5 seconds). An assumption is a detail that happens to be true but has not been tested or verified is an assumption, and a risk is an attribute that can prevent ta project from being completed.

NEW QUESTION: 4
