NEW QUESTION: 3
After a risk assessment study, a bank with global operations decided to continue doing business in certain regions of the world where identity theft is rampant. The information security manager should encourage the business to:

A. implement monitoring techniques to detect and react to potential fraud.
B. make the customer liable for losses if they fail to follow the bank's advice.
C. outsource credit card processing to a third party.
D. increase its customer awareness efforts in those regions.
Answer: A
Explanation:
Explanation/Reference:
Explanation:
While customer awareness will help mitigate the risks, this is insufficient on its own to control fraud risk.
Implementing monitoring techniques which will detect and deal with potential fraud cases is the most effective way to deal with this risk. If the bank outsources its processing, the bank still retains liability. While making the customer liable for losses is a possible approach, nevertheless, the bank needs to be seen to be proactive in managing its risks.
